Welcome to the February edition of GACCoM's ChamberBrief Newsletter! We are working in full swing at our new premises and are happy to bring you the first exciting contents of 2011.

For the sixth consecutive year, the Annual Economic Forum featured German and American economists as well as top-notch company representatives. Prof. Dr. Joachim Scheide from the Kiel Institute for the World Economy and Diane Swonk, Mesirow Financial, assessed the economic situation of Germany, Europe, as well as the US and agreed that 2011 will allow for a stable recovery. Rolf Meyer, President & CEO of HARTING Inc. of North America as well as Carol Neubauer, Chairman & CEO of B. Braun Medical, Inc., shared this optimism and highlighted their plans to hire new personnel.

To view the webcast of the keynote speeches and panel discussion moderated by Michael Backfisch, please go to www.gacom.org/ef-webcast.

Join us next week for a panel discussion on freedom of expression, risk-taking, and overcoming obstacles with artists from Breakthrough! Twenty Tears After German Unification: Critical Perspectives of Berlin Artists and former U.S. Ambassador to East Germany J.D. Bindenagel.

Virtual Office - Geschäftspräsenz

To assist German companies with their entry into the US market, GACCoM's DEinternational department can supply a virtual office, or Geschäftspräsenz. As many of our members know, having a US address and telephone number tells customers and partners that a newcomer in the US market is serious about doing business here, and the importance of being able to reach someone during US business hours cannot be overestimated. With a virtual office from DEinternational, companies can increase the contact to their customers and partners without the high costs associated with opening their own office.

Some companies use the virtual office as their permanent US business address, while others use it temporarily in preparation of opening their own location. In other cases, the virtual office acts as the ongoing support staff for a sales manager or other executive. Whatever the particular business goals, the virtual office can help a company gain an immediate foothold, while leaving time for the core team to concentrate on building the business.

The service includes a dedicated phone number and a Chicago address, and one of the GACCoM staff that is personally responsible for the client's account. Hourly packages of 5, 10, 20, and 40 hours per month are available. In addition to handling customer inquiries and general correspondence, GACCoM can also prepare and send mailings, do market research, or complete other tasks for the client company during these hours.

If you know of a company that could benefit from a virtual office, Virginia Attaway Rounds, Director of Consulting Services, will be happy to discuss possibilities in more detail. She can be reached at 312-644-2662 or rounds@gaccomm.org.

Member Profile: Komet of America, Inc.

KOMET® Komet of America, Inc. - subsidiary of the KOMET GROUP® based in Besigheim, Germany - was founded in 1985 in Schaumburg, IL and meanwhile employs 200 people throughout the US, Canada and Mexico, with production sites in Schaumburg, IL and Querétaro,

Mexico. The Group's core business includes designing and manufacturing cutting tools as well as supplying tool concepts and complete solutions for internal machining for the metalworking industry. Closeness to the respective customer base is key in KOMET GROUP's philosophy, a goal the company achieves with presences in over 50 countries on five continents. This and the dedication to providing cost-effective, user-related tool concepts enabled the group to acquire a leading international market position. With the takeovers of Dihart AG and Jel GmbH, KOMET rounded off its product portfolio and represents a dynamic strength in the machining areas for drilling, thread machining, and reaming.

Dr. Friedrich-Hans Grandin, President & CEO of Komet of America and GACCoM Board Member, is optimistic about this year's economic development of KOMET and the US in general. "The US' manufacturing industry rebounded much stronger from the 2009 crisis than expected and we anticipate this trend to continue in 2011, partly through deferred investments during the recession," Dr. Grandin says. "Due to the fact that we kept our talent on board during the recession, KOMET was and is well prepared to serve the demanding needs of its customer base during the recovery so that we substantially gained market share." He adds: "We are now already back to 2008 level sales and therefore are continuing to invest in our qualified workforce by hiring new personnel as well as strengthening our training efforts." Komet of America is committed to improving the local education infrastructure and is considering to reinstate its own apprenticeship program, which was discontinued after the crisis in the early 2000s. Many of the graduates of this apprenticeship program still work at KOMET being a backbone to KOMET's outstanding precision and quality. The company is currently in the process of designing the scope and curriculum of the program as well as identifying the right partners in the local educational system. Dr. Grandin is also an active supporter of GACCoM's Transatlantic Program - Young Technology Leaders (TAP-YTL).

GACCoM's Territory: State by State

AHK
German American
Chamber of Commerce of the Midwest Inc.
Michigan Chapter

Given its traditional strength in the automotive and advanced manufacturing industries, it comes as no surprise that the state of Michigan is an especially attractive location for German businesses.

GACCoM's local chapter, founded in 1994, counts over 300 members, representing the largest chapter membership in the country. The Michigan Chapter holds five signature events throughout the year, the New Years Gala, SAE (Society of Automotive Engineers) Reception, Spring Reception, Annual Fall Dinner, and the Unity Day Reception, all of which are eagerly anticipated by the Michigan membership. In addition, resources such as an online membership directory and online job board offer businesses additional opportunities to network, connect, and discover synergies. The Michigan Chapter's Heinz Prechter Tribute Scholarship program supports Michigan college and university students going to companies in Germany to work as interns, encouraging Michigan students to learn about German business, life, and culture. Logan Robinson serves as President and Chairman of the Michigan Chapter and is supported by Administrative Director Ingrid Justice, as well as a number of dedicated volunteers.

With the support of the local chapter, GACCoM frequently brings industry-specific events to Michigan that is increasingly becoming a hotbed for green technologies. A 2010 premier and highlight was the German American eMobility Forum in Birmingham last November. An exclusive line-up of over 25 speakers attracted more than 100 guests, and further viewers tuned in for the online broadcast of the event. It was just this week that the first of a number of such events planned for 2011 took place in Troy. Eight German delegation companies from the energy efficiency field shared their expertise with American counterparts at GACCoM's Energy Efficiency in Industry Conference. Video clips of the event are available at www.gaccomm.org/efficiency-webcast.
