Logansport, Indiana

Christy Householder

Cass County Government, Department of Economic Development

Christy Householder is the Director of Economic Development for Cass County, Indiana, where she has led initiatives in economic growth, community revitalization, and regional collaboration since 2002. She works closely with local governments, businesses, nonprofits, and regional and state partners to secure funding, strengthen partnerships, and enhance quality of life across north central Indiana. Her efforts focus on sustainable growth, rural development, and creating opportunities for future generations. Christy is an active member of several professional organizations, including the International Economic Development Council and the Indiana Economic Development Association.

Motivation for joining the trip:

As Director of Economic Development for Cass County, I aim to strengthen international relationships and support regional manufacturing growth. This trip offers an opportunity to learn from Germany's advanced practices, build partnerships, and showcase assets like the Cass County Agribusiness Park to enhance our region's competitiveness.

 Topeka, Kansas

Matthew Godinez

Kansas Department of Commerce

Matthew Godinez is Assistant Secretary of Quality Places at the Kansas Department of Commerce, overseeing programs including Main Street, housing, broadband, and community development. He aligns initiatives with the Kansas Framework for Growth and strengthens partnerships statewide. Under his leadership, the division earned national honors, including IEDC and NADO awards. A Top 50 Economic Developer and Leadership Kansas graduate, he holds MEDP and CPM credentials and serves on the IEDC board.

Motivation for joining the trip:

This delegation offers insight into Germany's manufacturing, apprenticeship models, and public-private partnerships, with lessons to apply in Kansas across community development, housing, broadband, downtown revitalization, and rural initiatives. As my first international economic development delegation, it will broaden my perspective, strengthen relationships, and generate ideas to help Kansas communities become more competitive and resilient.

Nicholas Sung | LinkedIn

Senior FDI Manager
nicholas.sung@illinois.gov

 Chicago, Illinois

Nicholas (Nick) Sung

Illinois Department of Commerce and Economic Opportunity

Nicholas (Nick) Sung is the Senior Foreign Direct Investment Manager for the Illinois Department of Commerce & Economic Opportunity, where he leads statewide efforts to attract foreign companies to invest and expand their business operations in Illinois. He brings more than a decade of experience in international affairs and program management, including previous roles at the U.S. Department of Defense, Harvard University, and the U.S. Peace Corps.

Motivation for joining the trip:

Nick is joining this trip to strengthen Illinois' position as a key partner for German companies - especially in priority areas for Illinois Governor Pritzker's economic agenda like advanced manufacturing, AI, clean energy, and life sciences. GACC's program offers a valuable opportunity to build direct relationships with German industry, government partners, and expand transatlantic partnerships that support business growth in both Illinois and Germany.
